A micro-level Peacebuilding Method: Peace Garden

Thursday, 1st July, 03.00 - 03:35 pm (CET)

Presentation with Burcu Eke-Schneider (University of Wuppertal)

An intercultural "Peace Garden" was created in order to live and learn inclusion, build awareness for women's empowerment, implement peacebuilding strategies, contribute to more climate justice and learn about biodiversity on a micro and local level to reduce the power of the drivers of injustice in the context of sustainable urban development. It is located at the Alevi Culture Centre Wuppertal where is a space genuinely dedicated to persons with a specific Alevi migration background, of religious activity of the Alevi culture. In this location a group was formed consisting of community, locals and other international participants. It resulted as an alternative eco-education model: 'out of school space' for intercultural and interreligious dialogue in the nature during the transformation process.

Open challenges for Citizenship Education

Wednesday, 28th July, 10:00 – 11:30 am (CET)

Workshop with Claudio Dondi, Irene Baraldi, Nikolai Weber and Maria Ballesteros Melero (International Institute of Humanitarian Law (IIHL))

The workshop will present the CITIZED project, co-funded by the European Union, whose final objective is to develop an innovative set of instruments that will help the widespread implementation of citizenship education policies in European education systems. The workshop will be structured in three parts: a first one focuses on some of the key challenges to Citizenship Education identified during the early project implementation phase; a second part will stimulate a debate on teachers' competences frameworks; a final part consisting in developing an "ideas forum" aimed at discussing participants' inputs and suggestions as well as possible future opportunities of cooperation.

Pecha Kucha

Wednesday, 18th August, 01.15 – 02:00 pm (CET)

In two Pecha Kucha sessions during the NECE CAMPUS 2021, international projects in the fields of citizenship education will be sharing fascinating insights in a series of 20 slides, each accompanied by 20 seconds of commentary. Powerful. Visually compelling. Authentic. Make sure to tune in!

#IMMUNE to opinion manipulation with Dr. Laszlo-Zoltan Kovats (EuroSoc-digital gGmbH)

The project #IMMUNE to opinion manipulation helps youngsters and their educators to navigate the pitfalls of fake news and opinion manipulation on (social) media and fosters critical thinking. It provides learning material to address fake news and opinion manipulation in formal and non-formal learning settings.

CANDIICE Energising Learning with Arts & Creativity with Adam Newman Turner, Ana Goncalves Matos, Eli Pijaca Plavsic (SDSA. Leicester UK)

Creative games and artistic encounters help us look differently at the complexities of current issues by disturbing rigid thinking and unsettling prejudice. Arts can be an entry point to citizenship, inviting learners to read, critically, the world around them, not just from the written word. Art affects us intellectually and emotionally and can help us: practise 'listening as a condition of vision'; discover deeper questions to be asked...and move towards social action. This Pecha Kucha will explore CANDIICE's conceptual approaches and questions, supporting CoE Competences for Democratic Citizenship. We invite educators (formal and informal) artists and creative workers to share this exploration

The Art of Living Together with Rymma Mylenkova (ENCEE (Eastern European Network for Citizenship Education))

To involve young people in civic education and attract those who left it out of their focus before, last year EENCE started using an innovative approach to the ideas' promoting. The project gives a method of how to provide civic education and civic action through art. We share a bright experience of organizing an International Poster competition devoted to civic education in 2020 and encourage participating in it in 2021. The posters will be demonstrating in an online gallery. We are going to tell about the opportunities and risks of creative projects in the sphere of civic education.

Invisible Migrant-Workers and Visible Human Rights. Social solidarity in Europe

Wednesday, 26th August 2021, 03.00 – 04.00 pm (CET)

Presentation with Prof. Inocent Szaniszló (Pontifical University of Saint Thomas Aquinas Rome)

Migrant workers are part of the everyday economic life of Europe. Today we find Ukrainian agricultural workers in Spain, Romanian workers in German meat factories, and Slovakian, Czech and Hungarian geriatric nurses assisting Austrian families – to name a few. Usually these workers are "invisible." Many of them are exploited both socially and economically. During their time of employment, they live in poverty level accommodations. Employee rights, such as hours or work breaks, have been ignored. During this time of COVID crisis these invisible migrant workers have become visible. The lines of exploitation often run between Western and Eastern Europe; but also occur between EU and non-EU states. In order to uphold the dignity of the human person with humane conditions for migrant workers, the Church can advocate in the following ways:

- 1) To evaluate and critique legal or illegal existing conditions
- 2) To raise public awareness of the fate of migrant workers
- 3) To help with concrete proposals for improving the situation in the sense of a new social solidarity in Europe.

Mapping of the 21st century civic educators in Europe

Wednesday, 15th September 2021, 10.00 – 11.30 am (CET)

Workshop with Louisa Slavkova, Dobrena Petrova; Caroline Hornstein Tomic, Maja Kurilic and Sabrina Räßple (THE CIVICS Innovation Hub)

With our mapping of the civic education stakeholders throughout Europe, we identify who they are, both in formal and non-formal civic education, we describe which topics and groups of society they are focusing on; we look into whether and how they collaborate; and finally, we seek to analyse what they need in order to create innovative and strong responses to the challenges faced by the citizens of Europe. Based on our preliminary research these can be civically minded social influencers; stakeholders invested in community building; financial, green or health-literacy promoters, educators working with companies and CSR programs, etc. as long as they are devoted to enhance the civic literacy of their communities, locally, nationally or internationally. On this panel, we want to have a conversation with some of them.

Pecha Kucha

Wednesday, 22nd September, 01.15 – 02:00 pm (CET)

In two Pecha Kucha sessions during the NECE CAMPUS 2021, international projects in the fields of citizenship education will be sharing fascinating insights in a series of 20 slides, each accompanied by 20 seconds of commentary. Powerful. Visually compelling. Authentic. Make sure to tune in!

Cohesion in your region (CORE) with Mareike Meyer (EuroSoc-digital gGmbH)

The CORE project brings the EU's Cohesion policy to schools and contributes to young Europeans' awareness on the impact the EU Cohesion policy has on our everyday lives. During project days in schools, youngsters develop an own project idea for their home region that could be supported by the Cohesion policy with the help of a future lab.

KARIJEROTEKA – your first link with the world of work with Vera Pfaff (Zaklada Znanje na djelu/ Stiftung Wissen am Werk)

KARIJEROTEKA online conversations engage young people into exploring careers in Croatia. The program addresses students from 8th grade (elementary school) and 1st – 4th grade (high school) and inspires them to find out about exciting jobs through talking to those who do them. ZND has, so far, enabled more than 3000 young people to visit companies and institutions and to meet fascinating people, offline and online, in many different professions in order to boost knowledge and awareness about career paths in Croatia. In the season 2021/2022 KARIJEROTEKA will present different career opportunities that evolve around the term green economy. Kids will learn what green economy is and, more importantly, why it is an essential part of their future job and their future in general.

The program brings scientist and activists, entrepreneurs and managers, developers and farmers that deal with sustainable growth, ecology, renewable energy and waste management. KARIJEROTEKA will again show young people a whole variety of sectors and positions that deal with these issues.

Kids will engage in conversations and hear answers to questions like: 'What's the most interesting aspect of your work? What did your career path look like? What skills are essential in your position? What advice would you give your 16-year-old self today?'

MAKE EUROPE GREAT AGAIN – Educating about Europe with Mathieu Decq (Director, Pistes Solidaires) & Martina Massoli (Project manager, Pistes Solidaires)

All the studies and surveys confirm that Europe remains abstract and unknown to young people. According to the Eurobarometer n°455: – 89% of young people want national governments to provide better education about European Union ; – 80% want this education to become a component of compulsory education.

Informing more and informing better appears to be a line of work that should be carried out in the school context.

With the Erasmus+ “Make Europe Great Again” (MEGA) project, 6 European partners will reach together one main objective: facilitate, support and reinforce learning about European Union at school by equipping teachers with appropriate teaching methods and resources.

PRO-YOUTH: project-based training for youth in heritage tourism with Dunja Vuković (Zaklada Znanje na djelu / Stiftug Wissen am Werk)

PRO-YOUTH offer a solution for the unemployment of the young, the lack of qualified personnel in the field of cultural tourism, and possibilities for sustainable development of local communities. Through Pro-Youth training, we tested the methodological framework, educational modules and manual. Based on the experience from the training and research that preceded the development of the methodology, recommendations for public policies regarding cultural tourism were made. Project was realized under Erasmus+ partnership.

Teaching Transition: Two transnational approachesCAMPUS, Workshop

Thursday, 23th September 2021, 10.00 – 11.30 am (CET)

Workshop with Vedrana Pribičević (Zagreb School of Economics and Management, Croatia) and Stanisław Zakroczyński (lawyer and historian, Poland) (Transition Dialogue – Dealing with Change in Democratic Ways, www.transition-dialogue.org)

The network “Transition Dialogue” focuses on the formation of knowledge and perceptions of the transitions in CEE after 1989. As practitioners of history and civic education, we are investigating in how transition is being taught at schools to develop new models in teaching transitions for understanding the past and building a sustainable future. In this interactive workshop we want to present two of our brand new transnational lesson plans dealing with the topics of a) economic transition and b) transitional justice – two examples of a variety of topics that are underrepresented in the current teaching of transition in CEE countries. Please join us and share your feedback with our experts!

Education on Europe's Community of Practice

Wednesday, 29th September 2021, 10.00 – 11.30 am (CET)

Workshop with Niels Dekker and Sandra Oliveira (Niels Dekker Educatie & ROC Mondriaan)

Online workshop in which we want you to engage with the Education on Europe (EoE) Community of Practice. During the EoE programme (by the Robert Bosch Stiftung) we have gathered and shared resources, case studies, knowledge and quality guidelines on how to engage the unengaged or marginalized young citizens of Europe. Through a Community of Practice we want to ensure that this information is made accessible to other educators across Europe to increase the quality of their citizenship projects and initiatives, while new knowledge and projects are co-created as well. Ten participants have co-created this Community during several sessions this summer and now it's time to involve more educators, teachers, facilitators, practitioners, researchers, NGO's and other actors in (non)formal education.

The EU's need to enhance citizenship competences

Thursday, 30th September 2021, 10.00 am – 12.00 pm (CET)

Workshop with Susanne Zels (Values Unite)

The EU relies on the trust and support of its citizens for its cohesion. This is why it is important for citizens to actively participate in EU democratic decision-making. The Conference on the future of Europe aims to provide an opportunity for such participation and could serve as a milestone towards developing new forms of participation or reform of existing methods. In order for citizens to actively participate it is however necessary to enhance citizenship competences in the EU and get a better understanding of citizens' current abilities to engage with decision-making. While various studies and monitorings by Eurydice, the Council of Europe and International Association for the Evaluation of Educational Achievement exist, developing a more frequent monitoring and comprehensive evaluation indicators for all the EU-27 has the potential to inform greater efforts at EU and national level to enhance citizenship competences.

Political Simulation Games with Moodle/H5P and BBB

Tuesday, 05th October 2021, 10.00 am – 12.00 pm (CET)

Workshop with Raphael Mano and David Koch (Landeszentrale für politische Bildung Baden-Württemberg)

What better way to understand and learn about political issues and processes than to simulate them yourself. With our virtual simulation games and virtual course room based by purpose on OpenSource-Tools, you can take the role of a politician or diplomat and participate in various political bodies such as the UN Security Council, the Council of the European Union or the European Parliament's ENVI Committee. Through various interactive learning tools, you can familiarise yourself with the topic and the political issues. Finally, you will participate as a political or state representative in a virtual session, negotiating with other representatives and vote on new resolutions or laws.

Edu-larps in civic education

Tuesday, 12th October 2021, 10.00 – 11.30 am (CET)

Workshop with Rie M. Sørensen (Dansk Kommunikation)

How can we use playful, gamified methods to teach difficult or controversial topics? Why are role playing games well-suited for engaging students in the political systems they live in? Taking our experience in developing Europe Alive as the starting point, we invite you to join a workshop focused on experience-sharing and on generating new ideas for how we can make the most of gamified methods in our teaching.

Europe Alive (www.europealive.org) is a teaching package centred on a digitally based live-action role playing game which simulates the EU law making system. We will share the didactic principles and methodology behind Europe Alive, and hope to inspire discussion and new initiatives.

Civic cohesion – The tool to foster European cohesion?

Wednesday, 13th October from 03.00 – 04.00 pm (CET)

Presentation with Julia Hoffmann (Mosaics & Circles)

We believe that strong civic literacy and civic infrastructure make for strong civic cohesion first at home and then in Europe. But what is actually exactly behind this new term – civic cohesion? In this session we aim to pin down its definition, look into its reality on the ground, and see how the tools of civic education can serve to foster it on the local and European level. We are eager to hear your take on this so please, do join our discussion with Iliyana Gräbner (MitOst e.V.), Sophie Pornschlegel (European Policy Centre), and Louisa Slavkova (Sofia Platform Foundation), to look into the term from various perspectives.
